

Planning for the Future: Questions every grower should be asking themselves

1. How would I define succession planning and how can it support the needs of my business?
2. What is my vision for the future of my business?
3. What if my children (or some of my children) do not want to take over the family business? What are my options?
4. How can we structure the succession to minimize the potential for conflict between my children?
5. What is my role in this type of engagement?
6. What are the steps I need to take before organizing an initial meeting?
